

Bibliography :-

i) Annual Reports of Agricultural Produce Market Committee, Gadhinglaj

ii) Ghosh Arbindo -

Market structure of Indian Agriculture analysis

The world press Pvt.Ltd, Calcutta -1963.

iii) Mathur P.N. and Kulkarni A.R.

Some observations on the working of a regulated market at Ghoti, Dist : Nasik.

iii) A preliminary review<sup>Ev</sup> - Published by Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics Pune, April, 1965.

iv) Kulkarni K.R.

Agricultural Marketing in India ( Vol. I, II, III )

v) Balkrishna Dattatraya Kulkarni Ph.D. Thesis- submitted in Sept, 1977. Functioning of the regulated market in Sholapur Dist. with special reference to groundnut, Tur, and Bajara.

LIBRARY
SHIVAJI UNIVERSITY
Warananagar, Kolhapur

-provisions can be conveniently enforced and various marketing facilities also can be provided.

If we cast a glance at the performance of the Gadhinglaj Market committee, the results are not so satisfactory. Our statement is substantiated by the observations that follow :-

1. Acquisition of New Sites :-

Basically, the time-interval between the establishment of the market committee and the final acquisition of the market site was considerable and it was of 5 years. If the period between the establishment of the market committee and the acquisition of the site is longer, there would be further delay in providing amenities and shifting the made there. Such an unjustifiable lapse of time would necessarily hamper the cause of effective regulation.

II. Development of the Yard :

Following table is a good painter at the extent to which the Gadhinglaj Market committee has developed its yard and as also whether the new sites has really become place of trade in agricultural commodities -

Development of market yard done by market committee, Gadhinglaj.

Sr.No.	Particulars.	Yes/No.
1.	Land acquisition	Yes
2.	Levelling	Yes
3.	Office Building	Yes