

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, I am grateful to my guide, Dr. J. B. Ambekar, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, Shivaji University, Kolhapur, who has been helping me from the beginning of registration. He provided me ample freedom and opportunities to collect data and facts from different sources and to consult some teachers and respectful personnel in Kolhapur. His guidance, co-operation and frequent suggestions were helpful for me to complete the dissertation in time.

Besides my guide, I am indebted to Dr. K. B. Nayak, Lecturer, M. A., M. Phil., Ph. D, who suggested me as an insider to select the title and area to carry on this work with commitment and hardwork. From the commencement of field work until the final draft of this dissertation, he along with my guide, helped me to complete this research work in a systematic and scientific way.

My sincere thanks are to Dr. Sarjerao Salunkhe, Dr. Rajendra Patil, Prof. D. Shrikant, Ms. Sujata Gokhale, Lecturer and Shri B.N. Kendre, Lecturer in Department of Sociology and Dr. R.N. Salve, Professor, Shivaji University, Kolhapur for the discussions on research topic. I am also thankful to the clerk, Librarian and peon of the Sociology department.

I am extremely grateful to the respondents, clients, students and other respective people, who were interviewed and provided me authentic data, facts and views.

I am very thankful to whole staff of my Shringar Institute and Beauty Palour for their co-operation.

I am also thankful to my friends Geeta Patil, Devraj Patil, Mr. Shivajirao Ghatge and other friends.

I thank a the typist Shri. Deepak Phatak for taking pain to type and retype the whole dissertation with care and patience. I am also thankful to the photographer Mr. R. A. Ningure.
