

LIST OF TABLES

NO.	TITLE OF TABLE	PAGE
1 1]	Sample of selected farmers	10
1.1A	Sample of selected farmers	11
1.2	Sample of selected marketing functionaries	14
2.1	Statewise estimates of area of dry chillies for 7 years from 1980-81 to 1986-87	15
2.2	Statewise estimates of production of dry chillies for 7 years from 1980-81 to 1986-87	18
2.3	Karnataka state's districtwise estimates of area of dry chillies for 9 years from 1980-81 to 1988-89	21
2.4	Karnataka state's districtwise estimates of production of dry chillies for 9 years	23
2.5	Dharwad districtwise talukawise estimates of area and production of dry chillies for 5 years	25
2.6	Statement showing the details of arrivals of red chillies & value in different APMCs in Dharwad district	37
2.7	Average minimum, maximum and model prices of red chillies in different APMCs of Dharwad district	39
2.8	Index number of model prices of red chillies and average rate of price rise	40
2.9	Table showing turnover of market	53
2.10	Market fee collected for two years	53
2.11	Gross income, expenditure and surplus	53
2.12	Market charges	55
2.13	Table showing assets for two different years	56

NO.	TITLE OF TABLE	PAGE
3.0	Classification of farmers	69
3.1	Age profile of respondents	70
3.2	Education, land holding & religion of farmers	71
3.3	Distribution of number and type of family	73
3.4	Distribution of farmers according to land holdings and income per annum	74
3.5	Distribution of farmers according to landholding and expenses/acre	75
3.6	Improved method of cultivation and production/acre	76
3.7	Distribution of red chillies production and land holdings	77
3.8	Distribution of farmers according to source of finance	79
3.9	Finance problems of farmers	80
3.10	Percentage of total land used for growing red chillies by farmers according to their land holding	82
3.11	Distribution of farmers according to use of mechanical devices	83
3.12	Distribution of farmers according to cropping pattern and varieties grown	84
3.13	Distribution of farmers according to production problems	85
3.14	Distribution of farmers according to assembling problems	86
3.15	Distribution of farmers on the basis of grading before sales	87
3.16	Distribution of farmers on the basis of satisfaction on grading	88

NO.	TITLE OF TABLE	PAGE
3.17	Distribution of farmers on the basis of storage problems	89
3.18	Opinion about storage facility provided by APMC	90
3.19	Opinion about adequacy of storage facility	90
3.20	Means of transportation used by farmers	92
3.21	Opinion of farmers on transport and road conditions	93
3.22	Distribution of farmers on the basis of time of sales and method of sale	95
3.23	Opinion poll of farmers regarding market rates	96
3.24	Marketing problems of respondent farmers	97
3.25	Farmers opinion regarding market charges	98
3.26	Farmers opinion on malpractices in Byadgi market	99
3.27	Classification of marketing functionaries according to capital investment	101
3.28	Distribution of marketing functionaries according to capital investment and nature of functionaries	102
3.29	Distribution of marketing functionaries according to age group, capital investment and type of organisation	104
3.30	Distribution of marketing functionary according to education level, capital investment and religion	106
3.31	Distribution of marketing functionaries according to capital investment and net income	108
3.32	Distribution of marketing functionaries according to their nature and net income	109
3.33	Distribution of marketing functionaries according to capital investment and net expenditure	111

NO.	TITLE OF TABLE	PAGE
3.34	Classification of marketing functionaries according to the persons from whom they purchase	113
3.35	Nature of persons who are considered in purchasing	114
3.36	Classification of marketing functionaries according to the factors which influence purchase of red chillies	115
3.37	Purchase problems faced by marketing functionaries	116
3.38	Classification of marketing functionaries according to the persons to whom they sell	118
3.39	classification of marketing functionaries according to the mode of sales	119
3.40	Classification of marketing functionaries according to the sales problems	120
3.41	Classification of marketing functionaries according to the problems of raising finance	125
3.42	Classification of marketing functionaries on the basis of source of market information	128
3.43	Components of cost of production per acre of red chillies in Byadgi taluka	137
3.44	Distribution of farmers according to cost of production per acre and size of farmers	139
3.45	Components of cost of marketing of red chillies per quintal in Byadgi taluka (in case of farmers)	141
3.46	Average price received and average cost of marketing per quintal of red chillies (in case of farmers in Byadgi taluka in 1988-89)	142

NO.	TITLE OF TABLE	PAGE
3.47	Average price received, average cost of marketing and profit per quintal of red chillies (in case small, medium and big farmers in Byadgi taluka in 1988-89)	143
3.48	Cost of marketing of red chillies per quintal in Byadgi market (for marketing functionaries in 1988-89)	144
3.49	Spreadover of consumer's price per quintal of red chillies in Byadgi taluka during 1988-89	145

LIST OF FIGURES

2.1	All India area and production of red chillies	27
2.2	Karnataka State's area and production of red chillies	28
2.3	Area and production of red chillies in Dharwad district (Karnataka State)	29
2.4	Six years (83-84 to 88-89) average share of different markets in Dharwad District.	38