

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Above all my thanks are due to my guide and academic supervisor Prof. (Dr). V. B. Jugale for his encouragement in pursuing an M. Phil. Project on 'Financial Sector Reforms with Specific Reference to Banking Sector Reforms 1991-1996'. But for his support and guidance it would not have been possible for me to have completed this work. My debt to him is too large to be acknowledged adequately.

My thanks are due to the Shivaji University, Kolhapur for providing me the opportunity for taking up this research project and to the Reserve Bank of India for having made available its facilities, publications and resources.

I started this project alone but as it got underway, a host of people and institutions joined in giving advice, pointing me in the right direction, sparing their time and expertise, offering comments, reading through the drafts and so on. Of these, the name of Smt. Balbir Kaur, Director, DEAP, RBI, New Delhi comes foremost to mind. I thank her most sincerely. This acknowledgement would be incomplete without placing on record the excellent and unstinted secretarial support extended by Sarva Shri S. K. Kataria and Pawan Kumar.

The contribution of others, too numerous to name, is acknowledged gratefully and without reserve.
