It was possible to undertake and proceed with this research work because of able guidance of Dr. Madhukar Sonar, Professor and Head of the Department of Education. I am very thankful for the guidance and encouragement given by him.

The discussions made with Prof. S.G. Mali, Head of the Department of Psychology, Rajaram College, Kolhapur, were fruitful to complete this research work. So I wish to express here my gratefulness to him.

Moreover, the researcher's heartfelt thanks are due to his friends Shri Chandrakant Sawant, who assisted him to conduct family interviews and Shri Shashikant Bagal who gave some suggestions for statistical applications, some valuable hints were given by Shri Jaishingrao B. Shinde, which helped to proceed with the work.

Besides, the discussions made with other staff members of the Department of Education, Shivaji University, proved helpful in the completion of this research work. So I must mention my hearty thanks to them, as well as to Dr. Mulla, Principal, Teacher's Training College, Bombay, who was guest lecturer in our department.

Finally I can't help but to give thanks to the subjects .

and raters who participated with zeal and sincerity. My wife and mother who provided the needed atmosphere to complete this work, deserve special appreciation.
