CHAPTER	TITLE	PAGE NO.
ONE	INTRODUCTION
	1.1 What is Holography ?	1
	1.2 Historical	1
	1.3 Principle of Holography	6
	1.4 Holography; Construction and Reconstruction	8
	1.5 Varieties of Holograms and Their Geometries for Recording	14
	1.6 Properties of Holograms	17
	1.7 Holographic Interferometry	18
	1.8 Outline of Present Work	19
	R E F E R E N C E S	23
TWO	CRITICAL REVIEW ON HOLOGRAPHIC INTERFEROMETRY
	2.1 Introduction	25
	2.2 Theory of Fringe Formation and Localization	26
	2.3 Holographic Interferometric Information	36
	2.3.1 Introduction	36
	2.3.2 Holographic fringes	37
	2.3.3 Holographic contouring	38
	2.4 Strategy For Evaluation of Information	39
	2.4.1 Calculation of displacement vectors from fringes	41
	2.4.2 Displacement and deformation in the object system	44

CHAPTER	TITLE	PAGE NO.
	2.4.3 Measurement of interference phase	46
	2.4.4 Sensitivity of surface strain measurement	48
2.5	Basic Technique of Holographic Interferometry	49
	2.5.1 Real time interferometry	49
	2.5.2 Double exposure interferometry	51
	2.5.3 Time average interferometry	53
	2.5.4 Stroboscopic interferometry	53

 THREE EXPERIMENTAL WORK ON HOLOGRAPHIC INTERFEROMETRY
3.1	Essentials of Recording Hologram	57
	3.1.1 Laboratory requirement	57
	3.1.2 Vibration isolation table	57
	3.1.3 Testing of stability	59
	3.1.4 Source	59
	3.1.5 Optical components	61
	3.1.6 Adjustment of beam intensities	65
	3.1.7 Other accessories used for recording	67
3.2	Recording Materials	68
	3.2.1 Silver halide emulsions	68
	3.2.2 Photo polymers	70
	3.2.3 Dichromated gelatin	71

CHAPTER	TITLE	PAGE NO.
	3.2.4 Thermo plastics	73
	3.2.5 Photo resist	73
3.3	Processing Of Holograms	74
	3.1.1 Development of exposed plate	75
3.4	Experimental Set Up	76
	3.4.1 Experimental procedure and precautions	76
	3.4.2 Recording of different types of holograms	79
	3.4.3 Double exposure holographic interferometry (NDT)	82
	3.4.4 Holographic optical testing	92
	R E F E R E N C E S	97
FOUR	SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION
	4.1 Introduction	99
	4.2 Critical Review on Holographic Interferometry	100
	4.3 Applications of Holographic Interferometry	102
	4.4 Concluding Remarks	105
	R E F E R E N C E S	108
