

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It has been a great pleasure for me to have been worked under the guidance of Dr. Rajendra B. Patil, Reader, Department of Sociology, Shivaji University, Kolhapur, and it was possible for me to complete this dissertation with his constant suggestions and co-operation. So, I acknowledge my thanks to him for his valuable co-operation.

I am also thankful to Dr. S.N. Pawar, Professor and Head Department of Sociology, Shivaji University, Kolhapur for encouragement and organising lecture series of two weeks by Dr. P.J. Patel from M.S. University, Baroda on 'Research Methodology' which helped me while conducting this investigation.

I am thankful to the faculty members of Department of Sociology, Shivaji University, Kolhapur, Dr.S.A. Salunkhe, Dr.S.M. Dahiwale, Dr. J.B. Ambekar, Prof. Shrikant and Dr. M.M. Awate for their M.Phil. lectures during my course time.

I am thankful to Principal V.B. Sayanakar of K.B.P. College, Islampur and Prof. V.G. Panaskar Head Department of Sociology, K.B.P. College, Islampur who permitted me to join M.Phil. course.

I express my profound gratitude to President of Islampur M.I.D.C., Mr. Sanjay Jadhav and the unit-holders who helped me during my data collection.

I am also thankful to Mr. Sham Khatavkar and Mr. Havasherao Patil the office members of Islampur Municipal Council and Mr. Jadhav, Mr. Sakpal, and Mr. Kambale ,the office staff of District Industrial Centre, Sangli who had provided office documents related with my research.

I also express my profound gratitude to Miss Geeta Gosavi and Mr. J.D. Mulik for their help in typing and cartography.

My acknowledgement would remain incomplete if I do not record the co-operation and constant encouragement from all my family members and hugging love from my son Pranav and daughter Manorama during my course time.

P.S. SALUNKHE